

Users & Permissions overview

September 15, 2026

Users & Permissions overview

Users & Permissions is the administrative access surface for reaching user and membership work. Use this page to orient yourself, then continue to the page that matches your goal.

If you need to...	Go to
Understand the administrative access surface	Users & Permissions overview
Reach the Users & Permissions page	Reach Users & Permissions
Understand what the current page contains	Understand the current surface
Manage users, roles, or access control	Manage users
Manage membership from organization settings	Organization overview

Users & Permissions overview

The Users & Permissions page is the place to start when you need administrative access information. It currently presents a placeholder for user management and directs membership work to organization settings.

The page identifies the area with the subtitle `Manage users, roles, and access control`. Its status message is `Coming soon`. The page also states:

`User management functionality is currently under development. This page will allow you to manage users, assign roles, and control access permissions.`

The Admin Dashboard is the administrative hub for these entry points.

When no signed-in user name is available, the Admin Dashboard uses the subtitle `Central hub for system administration and management`.

Before you start

Before opening this surface, decide whether you need orientation or membership management. Use Users & Permissions for orientation. Use Organization overview for membership management.

The page displays this guidance:

Until then, manage membership from your organization settings.

Reach Users & Permissions

Use this procedure when you need to open the Users & Permissions page from the administrative hub.

Prerequisites

- You are on the Admin Dashboard.

Steps

1. Choose the entry point that matches where you are working.

If you are...	Select
In the administrative list	Users & Permissions
Using the quick actions	Add New User

2. On the Users & Permissions page, confirm that the heading is Users & Permissions.

The page displays Coming soon and the message Until then, manage membership from your organization settings.

Result: The Users & Permissions page is open.

Understand the current surface

The current surface is a status page rather than an editable user list. It shows the Users & Permissions heading, the subtitle Manage users, roles, and access control, and the status message Coming soon.

What you see	What it tells you
User management functionality is currently under development. This page will allow you to manage users, assign roles, and control access permissions.	User management is presented as a future function of this page.
Search 	Opens the command palette.

What you see	What it tells you
Switch to dark mode	Changes the display mode.
Sign out	Ends the current session.

The page does not present an editable user list, role selector, permission selector, save control, labelled form field, or grid. The next page for user-management work is Manage users. The organization-settings destination is Organization overview.