Find articles

An article list is a Home view of published articles. A feed is a set of article results returned for a broad reading purpose. A tag is a subject filter that narrows the list to articles carrying that tag. Use a feed when you want a broad set of results, or use a tag when you are looking for a particular subject.

If you need to...	Go to
Browse the public article list	Open the Home article list
Read articles from your feed	Choose a feed or tag
Narrow the list by subject	Choose a feed or tag
Move through more than one page of results	Handle different result sets
Open an article or visit its author	Continue from an article result
Favorite an article	Favorite articles

Before you start

Home is a browsing surface, so you do not enter article details there. The list is chosen from the available feeds or tags, and pagination appears only for a result set containing more than 10 articles.

Prerequisites

- Know whether you need the public list or the list available after you sign in.
- Have a subject in mind if you plan to filter by tag.
- If you expect page numbers, work with a result set containing more than 10 articles.

Open the Home article list

Open `/` to reach Home, the article-list entry point. It brings together tags, article results, and the feed choices used to narrow those results.

Prerequisites

- Know whether you want the public article list or a signed-in feed.

Steps

1. Open the Home route at `/`.
2. Locate the feed choices above the article results.

Result: Home is open with the article-list area and its available feed choices.

Understand the article-list surface

The article-list surface groups feed choices, tags, article results, and page navigation in one place. A selected tag appears as its own active tab, while the article area can show loading or empty-list messages.

Area	What to look for
Feed choices	Your Feed appears when an authenticated token is present. Global Feed is available without that guard.
Tag area	Tag links appear when tags have loaded. Selecting one adds an active tag tab.
Article results	Article rows contain an author link, a date, a favorite control, a title, a description, a Read more... link, and tags.
Page navigation	Page numbers appear only when the article count is greater than 10.
Loading and empty states	The article area can show <code>Loading...</code> or <code>No articles are here... yet.</code> . The tag area can show <code>Loading Tags...</code> .

The favorite control is a heart icon beside the article's favorite count.

Choose a feed or tag

Choose a feed or tag according to your reading goal.

Prerequisites

- Have Home open.

Steps

1. Choose the list that matches what you want to read.

If you want to...	Select
Read the public article list	Global Feed
Read the feed available to your signed-in account	Your Feed
Narrow the results to a subject	The tag value for that subject

2. Confirm that the selected results replace the loading state.
3. If you selected a tag, confirm that the selected tag appears as the active tab.

Result: The article list matches the feed or tag you selected.

Handle different result sets

The list changes according to your sign-in state, the selected tag, and the number of matching articles. Use the branch that matches what you see.

What you see	What to do
Your Feed is available	Select Your Feed to request the authenticated feed.
Your Feed is unavailable	Select Global Feed for the public article list.
A tag is selected	Continue with the active tag tab and its filtered results.
No tag is selected	Choose a tag value from the tag area if you need a subject filter.
Page numbers are present	Select the page number for the next result set.
Page numbers are absent	Continue with the current result set. Pagination is not shown for 10 or fewer articles.

The initial list uses the feed when a token exists and the global list otherwise. Global and tagged lists use 10 articles per request, and the feed request starts with 10 articles.

Prerequisites

- Have an article list open.
- Use a result set with more than 10 articles to move to another page.

Steps

1. In the pagination area, select the page number you want to open.
2. Confirm that the selected page results appear.

Result: The selected page of article results is on screen.

When the list does not give you a result

The Home list uses exact messages for loading and empty results. Use the message on screen to choose the next action.

Message	What it means
Loading...	Article data is not ready for display.
Loading Tags...	Tag data is not ready for display.
No articles are here... yet.	The selected list contains no articles to display.

Prerequisites

- Have Home open with the message visible.

Steps

1. Check which message appears and follow its action.

If you see...	Select or do...
Loading...	Wait for the article area to finish loading.
Loading Tags...	Wait for the tag area to finish loading.
No articles are here... yet.	Select Global Feed or choose another available tag.

2. Confirm that the resulting article list or loading state matches the message action.

Result: The article area is either loading, shows its available results, or is ready for you to choose another feed or tag.

Continue from an article result

An article result gives you three onward actions: open the article, open its author's profile, or change the article's favorite state.

Prerequisites

- Have an article result on screen.

Steps

1. Select the action that matches what you want to do.

If you want to...	Select
Open the article	The article title or Read more...
Visit the author's profile	The author's name
Toggle the article's favorite state	The heart icon beside the article's favorite count

Result: The selected article, author profile, or favorite action is open for the next task.
